Studies indicate that synchronous events in asynchronous courses can enhance and improve students' learning experiences. While AU Online students cannot be required to attend synchronous events, faculty members can develop innovative and creative opportunities that will motivate students to participate more frequently and effectively. In this workshop, you will learn how one AU faculty member uses Adobe Connect to build community, connect with students, and provide professional development opportunities. You will also interact with the technical support team at The Learning House for a robust Q&A about this great resource. This workshop is part of AU Online's Brown Bag Lunch Series, so grab a lunch and join us!
