This tutorial will introduce you to our subject research guides.
On the library homepage, select the “Research by Subject” tab. This will take you the list of subject guides. These guides are designed to gather all of the library’s subject-specific resources in one place.
Select “Communication” from the left-hand menu.
Each subject guide has a very similar layout. The tabs at the top of the guide organize the content. There are tabs for subject-related books, article databases, reference sources, useful web sites, images and video. The research guides may also have subject-specific information tabs, but the ones I mentioned are universal.

Also included on every guide is the “Cite It” tab, which contains helpful information about different citation styles.
Thanks for using the One-Minute Mentor tutorial series!
