“Teaching Hope”

Thursday, September 3, 2009
5:00–7:00 p.m.
Presentation: 5:00 p.m.
Book signing*: 6:00 p.m.
Crimi Auditorium,
Institute for Collaboration, Aurora University

The story of Erin Gruwell and the Freedom Writers has touched the hearts and brought hope to thousands of teachers, students and people all over the world. Since The Freedom Writers Diary was first published 10 years ago, Gruwell and the Freedom Writers have continued their quest to empower students and to inspire those who teach them. Now, 150 Freedom Writers Teachers open their classrooms and their hearts to share with us the reality of their lives.

There is no charge for this event and reservations are not required; however, seating is limited to the first 500 people.

For more information, please contact Aurora University FEA Coordinators Pam Ferdinand at pferdina@aurora.edu/630-844-6233 or Judy Maxwell at jmaxwell@aurora.edu/630-844-7578.

Books will be available for purchase.
